STUDENTS LOVE TESTING!

With testing season around the corner, we the people at the Sequoia Star have pondered on why students are so excited to get back to testing. For example, a few students had stated that they LOVE testing season! One confident student had went on record and said that they will ace the test because they are so smart! It is clear to see that the myth of students hating testing season is false and that we should continue this fantastic tradition that causes absolutely no stress!
