Are puzzles boring?

By Martin Lingat

In my opinion, I don't think they are boring and puzzles are pretty fun to do because it makes you have to actually use your brain, and it is satisfying to look at it once you've completed it. There are many different types of puzzles of different difficulties you can also try, so they're a good thing to do whenever you're bored. However, some people might disagree with me since puzzles can be time consuming, too repetitive, or too easy or too hard.

Let's see what other students have to say...

"Yeah, because they're too time consuming."

Sophia Mirghanbari

"No, because I haven't done one in a while."

Bella Solis

"No, because puzzles create neuron pathways that make you more smarter and think harder."

Jacob Manzon

"No, because of the feeling once you finish the puzzle."
